

ABSTRACT

The invention provides that a ferrofluid seal is used in order to create an effective sealing for optical sensors in speed-controllable electric motors.